A “virtual town hall” for interactive discussion and information about SNAP (food stamps), WIC, and nutrition in the United States.

The SNAP to Health website is part of a project conducted at New America to improve nutrition in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). The project makes science-based policy recommendations to improve nutrition and prevent obesity or the 46 million low-income beneficiaries (1 out of 7 Americans) enrolled in SNAP, formerly known as the food stamp program.
